

AMERICANS TO FINANCE 2 BIG CHINA COMPANIES

$14,000,000 Gold Capitalisation Announced

TEXTILES, FILMS

Former Premier Chow Tse-chi Promoter

Exclusive Dispatch to THE CHINA PRESS

New York, Jan. 8.—The formation of two great development companies for China was announced here last night by ex-premier Chow Tse-chi, at a dinner given in his honor, by the China Society and a group of American business men. Mr. Chow stated that the Universal Textile Company, capitalised at $4,000,000 and the Dragon Film Corporation, $10,000,000 had been organized and incorporated in the State of Delaware.

Associated with Mr. Chow in his enterprise is a large group of American financiers headed by Alexander J. Drexel Biddle Jr., of Philadelphia, and F. P. Graves, former United States Alien Property Custodian.

The object of the companies is to engage in different branches of trade as well as to educate the Chinese through the medium of the cinema in the most modern methods of manufacture and enterprise.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Jan. 8.—It was learned here from New York dispatches that Mr. Chow Tse-chi has consented to act as head of the Universal Textile Company which will manufacture silk and cotton piece goods in Shanghai. A third company had been suggested which will produce and assemble motorcars, and various kinds of China and glass ware. It is stated that all the factories will be under strict supervision by Americans employing Chinese labor.

The Dragon Film company, which is essentially educational in its scope, will be headed by Mr. Frank Chamberlin, and will engage in the distribution of industrial films showing the business, political and industrial side of American life. These pictures will be released and exhibited not only to all the motion picture houses throughout China but in addition will be shown in various government schools and smaller cities and towns to acquaint the population regarding the manners and customs of Americans.

Mr. A. J. Thomas, well known in Shanghai as the former head of the British American Tobacco Company, and a director in the Chinese American Bank, will assist Mr. Chow Tse-chi in the organization of these enterprises, as will also Dr. C. T. Wang and Mr. Chang Chen.

Seek Solution Of Jewel Mystery In N. Y. Cemetery

Exclusive Dispatch to THE CHINA PRESS

New York, Jan. 8.—William D. Williams, Special Agent of the Department of Justice today admitted to newspapermen that his office was "working on a jewel case."

The admission followed published reports here that Federal secret service operatives had located the grave of an American seaman in a Brooklyn cemetery in which thousands of dollars' worth of jewels are said to have been smuggled into the United States in 1920 and buried in the seaman's coffin by plotters who have since been unable to find the right grave.

Bishop Hay Sails For United States

Bishop Samuel Ross Hay, Methodist Episcopal (South) Bishop for North China, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Margaret Hay, sailed on the President Taft yesterday en route to Houston, Texas.

During their stay in Shanghai Bishop Hay and family have been the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Parker.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

BY J. L. BUTTS

"When did you start working for the undertaker?" inquired Kan Yi-ling of Taha Men-sung. "Whaddya mean working for the undertaker?" retorted Taha. "Don't you think it's kind of unhealthy to be prowling around on rooftops in stocking feet these chill mornings?" pursued Kan.

"Undoubtedly," assented Taha, "but what's that got to do with me? I'm not conductin' any tours over the tiles."

"Didn't I just see you promenading along the ridge-pole?" asked Kan.

"You didn't!" said Taha over his shoulder as he dashed for the stairs leading to the top floor of his dwelling in Wochang Road.

Sticking his head through the trapdoor, he saw an unoccupied pair of shoes on the roof. Letting himself down, he ducked into the front room. Here he came upon Tse Kyi-sung, who was busily tying up three cotton jackets, one silk jacket, one black cloth gown and a pair of zinc candlesticks—all the property of Taha—in a large handkerchief. Taha embraced the stranger like a long-lost brother and yelled for a policeman.

In the Mixed Court Tse wore the patient look of a man who always expects to be misunderstood. He had not entered Taha's home to steal anything, he explained disinterestedly. He had only selected it as a temporary haven of refuge. There had been some trouble about a land transaction and the other parties to the deal had him on the run. Taha's roof looked like the very thing to throw off pursuit. But it had proved cold on the roof and so he went inside.

All of which was quite satisfactory as far as it went, but didn't clear up the incident of the handkerchief and the juggling with the Taha wardrobe and candlesticks. In consideration of which discrepancy Taha goes to jail for one month.

REVISED VERSION

Just why Sing Young-shing selected a police station as a market for popular fiction nobody on the force has been able to figure out, but all agree that it was a poor move on Sing's part. This genius happened in along about 11:30 a.m. and poured a tragic tale of assault and robbery into the Sergeant's sympathetic ear. It seemed that Sing had been held up and deprived of his watch, value $4.50.

When had this dastardly outrage occurred, the Sergeant inquired.

Sing allowed that it had been about 9 o'clock. The Sergeant made a rapid calculation and figured that the highwayman might be about half-way to Soochow by this time.

"Why didn't you report it before?" he asked.

Sing said he could not. He had been set upon and beaten till he could not wiggle, let alone carry a report as far as the police station. The policeman looked him over and could not see any marks on the weeping victim. He made a more minute examination and, beyond a few pimples, found that Sing didn't have a blemish or an abrasion on him. Then he started questioning.

In about 15 minutes Sing had revised his yarn to the effect that he had been carrying about $120 worth of opium around concealed in his boot and that somebody had taken it away from him. The sequel was that Sing has gone into storage for two months.

Coincident with the holding of the annual meeting of the American Association of China this afternoon the Association last night issued their annual report for 1922 showing the activities of the organization during the past year.

The meeting this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock will take place at the American Club. The main business of the meeting will be the presentation of the year's reports and the election of officers for the ensuing year, including a new president to succeed Mr. John S. Potter, Acting President.

POLICE RESERVE REVIEWED BY COUNCIL HEAD

Mr. Simms Congratulates Civilian Constables; 115 Men Turn Out

Shanghai Municipal Police Reserves, numbering 115 strong, attached to the Louza, Sinza, and Hongkew Police stations, were inspected last night by Mr. H. G. Simms, Chairman of the Municipal Council, at the Town Hall.

Following the formal review, Mr. Simms addressed the Reserves and complimented them upon their splendid morale and excellent appearance. He assured them that the Municipal Council is a "human" body and fully understands what their services mean to Shanghai.

Mr. Simms then gave unstinted praise for Mr. A. L. Anderson, who acted as assistant commissioner of Police in charge of the Reserves and who recently resigned. He also congratulated Sergeant Major W. Fairbairn and Inspector Young for excellent lectures and instruction and stated that the results attained were remarkable.

The head of the Council exhorted the Reserves to keep in trim at all times by constant duty tours and urged concord with the regular police, with whom they will act in case of emergency.

He expressed the appreciation the community felt for past services rendered by the civilian branch and congratulated the men on the effort they showed when called upon for active duty.

ANOTHER BOMB IS FOUND IN POCKET OF RUSS REFUGEE

Two Plead Ignorance And Are Dismissed By Mixed Court

A fist-fight between two Russians caused another bomb—one of many brought to Shanghai by the recent influx of Russian refugees—to be discovered by police early Sunday morning.

The men, N. Kornador and T. Chuekloban, were arrested during the wee sma' hours of Sunday morning charged with being drunk and disorderly in premises at 175 Market Street, and upon being searched a bomb, somewhat like a Mills bomb, about the size and shape of a lemon, was discovered.

The men were charged in the Mixed Court yesterday before British Assessor Mead and Magistrate Tsang, but were dismissed with a caution and the bomb confiscated.

The defendants declared they had not gone to 175 Market Street and created a disturbance when the landlord would not let them in, but that on the contrary they had been taken there by a runner whom they paid 20 cents. Twenty-four other Russians, also refugees from the portless ships at Wusung, accompanied them and they all paid 20 cents each for a bed, they said.

Inspector Mackintosh produced the bomb in court, explaining that he did not know whether it would explode upon being dropped or not as that variety of bomb had not been tested. Assessor Mead assured Inspector Mackintosh that no test need be made in the courtroom.

The defendants both claimed ignorance of the fact that it was considered a serious offense to carry bombs in Shanghai, being denizens of Russia, and were therefore dismissed after a lecture by the Court.

In addition a number of important subjects will be discussed including a report on the present condition of American Consular buildings, Washington Conference matters, extraterritoriality, the abolition of the International Mixed Court, and other matters.

MEMBERSHIP LESS

The annual report of the Association shows that the membership has decreased slightly chiefly because of returns to the homeland and the meeting today is expected to take measures to gain new members.

The report also gives a summary of the survey of American news appearing in the Chinese press, which, at the beginning of the year, was negligible, but which has been considerably improved. The report is not completely satisfactory, however, as the annual "eva" that "it is evident that something should be done to correct the dearth of American news. The relations between China and America are constantly becoming clearer and more involved. Not only should our press at home correct information on China and her affairs, but measures should be taken to give a more thorough distribution of correct American news in China; and this may very well apply to world events as well."

BANQUE'S SUIT TO RECOVER ON SONN DEAL OPENS

U. S. Court Hears Arguments On Exchange Contract

The case brought by the Banque Industrielle de Chine against Sonn Brothers, Inc. to recover Tls. 2,238.58 for nonfulfillment of an exchange contract alleged to have been executed by the Banque in March 1921 was heard before Judge C. S. Lobingier in the United States Court for China following the usual motion calendar yesterday afternoon.

Mr. H. D. Rodger, assisted by M. du Pac de Marcolles, appeared for the plaintiffs and stated that on March 16, 1922, Sonn Brothers entered into an agreement to purchase $350,000 at 5 1/2% or Tls. 8,658.01. Since Sonn Brothers was a responsible firm no action was taken until the following November when Mr. Harry Barr, who is in charge of the Banque's affairs, stated that an inquiry had been sent to Sonn Brothers regarding action on their commitment.

Although the letter was received by Thomas R. Scanlon, office manager for Sonn Brothers, no reply was sent to the Banque.

Matters drifted along until the following June when Mr. Barr, learning that Sonn Brothers would close their Shanghai office, again wrote for instructions. They were not forthcoming, so nine days later the account was closed out at prevailing rates, 7 1/2% or Tls. 6,339.43 showing a loss of Tls. 2,238.58 which was the amount claimed in the action.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl, who appeared for Sonn Brothers, stated that the contract should have been closed out in December which was the time stipulated in the contract. He called Mr. Thomas R. Scanlon, who testified that no action had been taken on the matter because the Banque Industrielle had closed its doors. He admitted however not taking any action on Mr. Barr's requests for instructions regarding the disposition of the account.

If the transaction had been concluded in December when the prevailing rate was 7 1/2% the deficit would have been Tls. 1,713.57 instead of the larger amount. Mr. Barr replied that the reason the account was not closed out, was because Sonn Brothers were reported to be a reputable house and therefore no pressure was exerted at that time.

Judge Lobingier stated that he would receive written briefs on the case from Mr. Rodger, on January 18, and Mr. Schuhl on January 31.

CIVILIAN RELIEF

The Association's report also records that they have raised $5,000 during the past year for the relief of destitute and stranded Americans in Shanghai. Contributions listed include: $1,000 each from the American Association, the American Club, and Shanghai Race Club, and $500 from the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club.

The Association has recently been examining the personnel statistics of the Chinese Maritime Customs and Chinese Post Office, according to the report, and the question of more adequate representation of Americans in the two services will probably be taken up in the near future.

On the question of American Consular buildings—which will be discussed at today's meeting—the Committee announces that it now has complete data on the condition of the several Consulates in China with statistics, photographs and other information, and that it will, in co-operation with the American Chamber of Commerce, urge upon Washington the necessity of substantial improvement.

The Association also announces that it has accepted the offer of Mr. Rodney Sharp of Wilmington, Delaware, a friend of Mr. T. P. Doremus, of a painting of George Washington by Mr. Stanley M. Arthur. The painting will be full length with a Valley Forge background.

The report of Mr. H. B. Lane, honorary treasurer, shows that the Association's financial affairs are in healthy shape.

Sun's Forces Move Into Kwangtung

(China Press Service)

Poochow, Jan. 7.—The vanguard of Dr. Sun's forces in Fukien have begun their advance into Kwangtung. General Hsu Chung-chi, the Commander-in-Chief, will soon leave with the main body of his army.

Peking, Jan. 7.—The Cantonese residents in Peking have dispatched a telegram to Chen Chiung-ming, Commander-in-chief of the rebel Kwangtung troops, advising him to evacuate Canton in favor of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's forces, which are marching on the provincial capital.

Chen is reminded of the futility of resistance which will only ruin Canton.

BISHOP MOLONY TELLS OF FAMINE; URGES RELIEF

Typhoons Wrecked Crops In Chekiang And Many Are Starving

Declaring that 300,000 people in Chekiang Province are suffering from dire need of food and 300,000 more from distress caused by the terrible typhoons which swept the province last summer, Bishop H. J. Molony painted a vivid picture of the famine conditions in Chekiang at the meeting of the B.W.A. yesterday.

According to Bishop Molony, 120 Chinese in the south of the province have died up to date from starvation while thousands more will die unless additional relief is given.

Under the direction of Mr. Carey, Commissioner of Customs at Ningpo and Mr. Wang, a progressive Magistrate, well organized committees of Chinese and foreigners, including the business men and missionaries, are in investigating conditions.

In the Chekiang district the high winds and water destroyed the rice crops. In the Chuk district, South of Hangchow floods were caused also by the typhoons.

MUST HAVE FUNDS

"Additional funds must be secured in order to save the lives of the starving," said Bishop Molony. "Any desiring to contribute can send donations to Mr. W. J. Souter, 20 Museum Road; to Mr. Carey, Commissioner of Customs at Ningpo or to myself and I will forward the same."

Bishop Molony made an interesting survey of Chekiang Province with which he is very familiar.

"The British Chamber of Commerce grants have greatly aided our educational program for the next five years and we hope to secure a portion of the Boxer Indemnity Fund for furthering the education of Chinese boys and girls," the bishop said. "Anyone wishing to contribute to school work can send the money to Mrs. Bailey, 89 Range Road."

Bishop Molony's talk was illustrated by maps and charts.

STORY RETOLD

The story of the separation of the couple was again recalled, how it was impossible for her to live in the room in the Ben building because her husband was continually drunk and that therefore she had gone to the Kalee hotel. She emphatically denied that Mr. Percy R. Moore came to her in the Ben building and assisted her in packing up.

Mr. Dudley Swinehart stated that he is at present employed by Mr. J. H. Black, architect, and receives a salary of Tls. 300 a month. He stated that he had no outside resources of any kind or description.

Regarding his wife's diamond ring Mr. Swinehart stated that he had never taken it. He believed that it was in Mr. Moore's possession since he had taken everything else. Mr. Schuhl questioned him regarding his being seen frequently with a young Chinese lady at the Victoria and Isis Theaters. Mr. Swinehart replied that his companion was a friend, "and might have been taken to the theater by yourself."

Judge Lobingier instructed the lawyers to agree on the portion of the record that the couple had passed upon in their divorce proceedings. He then took the case under advisement.

Several dramatic scenes marked the conclusion of the Swinehart vs. Swinehart case in the U. S. Court for China yesterday morning, when Mrs. Dudley Swinehart, who is suing her husband for $250 monthly maintenance and Tls. 500 for lawyers fees, broke down and wept, declaring that Mr. Faison was seeking to destroy her reputation.

Mr. P. S. Faison, in cross examination produced a letter written by Mrs. Swinehart to a Mr. Frank Bayer in America in which she told of her unhappiness, stating that a rupture in her marital relations was imminent because her husband was using her name like mud, and that frequently he seemed possessed of devil, but that he had deposited his money in her name. Mrs. Swinehart denied the last statement saying that it was merely a slip of the pen. The letter concludes with the statement that she could no longer respect her husband.

When questioned regarding her loss of respect for her husband she replied that on frequent occasions Mr. Swinehart had been unfaithful to her.

FRENCH ADVANCE INTO GERMANY NOT LIKELY BEFORE JANUARY 15TH

Paris Expected To Await Default Upon Next Reparations Payment Of Half Billion Gold Marks Before Acting

BERLIN SAYS SUM WILL NOT BE PAID

Reports Of Possible Break Between France, Italy And Belgium Denied, And Latter Will Assist In New Occupation

Exclusive Dispatch to THE CHINA PRESS

Paris, Jan. 8.—It was given out this evening from an official source that all talk of a rupture between France and Italy or Belgium is entirely unfounded. An announcement appeared this evening in Le Soir, published in Brussels, that two Belgian divisions would assist the French in the occupation of the Ruhr and Essen districts.

How soon the French troops will move forward to occupy additional German soil is a matter of doubt. It is believed that the troop movements will be delayed until after Jan. 15, when it is taken for granted that Germany will default on her reparations payment totalling half a billion gold marks.

In the interim it is hoped that President Harding will offer some plan to forestall independent action by the French.

Berlin, Jan. 8.—The German government admitted its inability to pay the half billion gold mark reparations installment falling due on January 15, stating that the government assumed the whole question of reparations was subject to revision following the payment of Belgian Treasury bonds.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 8.—A statement was issued from the White House this evening denying the rumor that the United States may call a reparations conference in the near future.

(Reuters Service)

Paris, Jan. 8.—French newspapers announce that 40 mining and naval engineers have left Paris bound for Essen but they will first await instructions at Dusseldorf.

Various movements of troops are reported.

(Reuters Service)

Washington, Jan. 7.—The possibility of America's entry into the Ruhr occupation problem has been measurably lessened by the Senate's vote proposing the withdrawal of the American troops on the Rhine. The official attitude towards the present situation is described as that of a sympathetic spectator, friendly to all parties in the crisis, with America's good offices and economic strength always available when the road is made clear for American help.

There is no indication as to whether President Harding will take action under Senator Reed's resolution in view of the fact that the withdrawal of the American troops is not made mandatory upon the President.

In the meantime, it is believed in some quarters that the agreement which may be reached with the British Mission regarding the funding of the British debt will have a far-reaching effect on the entire European economic position.

(Reuters Service)

Washington, Jan. 6.—In the Senate today, Senator Reed (Democrat) introduced a resolution urging the return of the remaining detachments of the American occupation forces on the Rhine. A lengthy debate followed in which Senator Hitchcock (Democrat) supported and Senator Wadsworth (Republican) opposed the resolution.

Senator Lodge (Republican) while in favor of the withdrawal of the troops pointed out that it would be most unfortunate to do anything that could be construed as taking sides in the reparations controversy.

Senator New (Republican) moved an amendment disavowing unfriendliness towards any of the European nations who might be affected by the withdrawal.

The amended resolution was eventually adopted.

Washington, Jan. 6.—It is authoritatively stated that reports published abroad to the effect that the United States has decided to withdraw the American troops from the Rhine is without foundation.

The Senate adopted Senator Reed's resolution by 67 votes to 6 after rejecting by 39 votes to 32 a motion in favor of referring the resolution to the Foreign Relations Committee.

(Reuters Service)

Washington, Jan. 6.—The American Chamber of Commerce is reconsidering the German Commercial men's request for a business commission to investigate Germany's ability to pay. It is understood that the officers of the Chamber propose to sound Allied business men in that connection, possibly with a view to action prior to the reparations conference.

JUDGE LOBINGIER HEARS SWINEHART ALIMONY CASE

U. S. Court Takes Latest Episode Under Advice

Several dramatic scenes marked the conclusion of the Swinehart vs. Swinehart case in the U. S. Court for China yesterday morning, when Mrs. Dudley Swinehart, who is suing her husband for $250 monthly maintenance and Tls. 500 for lawyers fees, broke down and wept, declaring that Mr. Faison was seeking to destroy her reputation.

When questioned regarding her loss of respect for her husband she replied that on frequent occasions Mr. Swinehart had been unfaithful to her.

STORY RETOLD

The story of the separation of the couple was again recalled, how it was impossible for her to live in the room in the Ben building because her husband was continually drunk and that therefore she had gone to the Kalee hotel. She emphatically denied that Mr. Percy R. Moore came to her in the Ben building and assisted her in packing up.

Mr. Dudley Swinehart stated that he is at present employed by Mr. J. H. Black, architect, and receives a salary of Tls. 300 a month. He stated that he had no outside resources of any kind or description.

Regarding his wife's diamond ring Mr. Swinehart stated that he had never taken it. He believed that it was in Mr. Moore's possession since he had taken everything else. Mr. Schuhl questioned him regarding his being seen frequently with a young Chinese lady at the Victoria and Isis Theaters. Mr. Swinehart replied that his companion was a friend, "and might have been taken to the theater by yourself."

Judge Lobingier instructed the lawyers to agree on the portion of the record that the couple had passed upon in their divorce proceedings. He then took the case under advisement.

Several dramatic scenes marked the conclusion of the Swinehart vs. Swinehart case in the U. S. Court for China yesterday morning, when Mrs. Dudley Swinehart, who is suing her husband for $250 monthly maintenance and Tls. 500 for lawyers fees, broke down and wept, declaring that Mr. Faison was seeking to destroy her reputation.

Mr. P. S. Faison, in cross examination produced a letter written by Mrs. Swinehart to a Mr. Frank Bayer in America in which she told of her unhappiness, stating that a rupture in her marital relations was imminent because her husband was using her name like mud, and that frequently he seemed possessed of devil, but that he had deposited his money in her name. Mrs. Swinehart denied the last statement saying that it was merely a slip of the pen. The letter concludes with the statement that she could no longer respect her husband.

U. S. Business Men To Consult Allies

(Reuters Service)

Washington, Jan. 6.—The American Chamber of Commerce is reconsidering the German Commercial men's request for a business commission to investigate Germany's ability to pay. It is understood that the officers of the Chamber propose to sound Allied business men in that connection, possibly with a view to action prior to the reparations conference.

to the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Rome on March 15 at which reparations will be discussed.

British Puzzled, Await Next Move

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 7.—The weekend following the failure of the Paris Conference finds the British Government in a dilemma, awaiting French action, Paris hesitating, the Germans perplexed and hoping for some form of American intervention and the United States intensely interested and sympathetic toward France but apprehensive of the economic and financial consequences for France and not yet advanced beyond a stage of cautious inquiry. Nevertheless in all four countries there is a persistent hope that a solution of the crisis may still be found.

The French press is friendly to Britain owing to Mr. Bonar Law's sincerity and candour, which enabled the French to realise the British standpoint. The British press is manifestly anxious not to say anything to exasperate or hamper France.

The failure of the Conference has cleared the atmosphere and in the event of the French plans being less fruitful than the French anticipate it is felt that the Allies may again co-operate with a view to saving the peace treaties and averting anarchy in Europe with greater prospects of success than up to the present.

Marshal Foch's plan is to send 45,000 troops to the Ruhr and draw a Customs cordon round the Ruhr and the Rhineland, disarming on mines and forests and exports and imports, believing that Germany would shortly ask for mercy.

According to the Observer, France's ultimate object is a huge Franco-German economic combination under French supremacy. Herr Hugo Stinnes and other German industrialists suggested this scheme, believing it to be the shortest way to restore German supremacy, but the sudden resistance of the German people may result in the collapse of Germany in the Spring, rendering intervention by the United States inevitable.

There are influences in France working against precipitate action. The Radical, Labor and Socialist parties are organizing meetings to protest against a provocative policy.

The danger of the situation is the French sensitiveness with regard to France's national dignity. Le Journal says: "The whole world is awaiting the French forward move. What a roar of laughter there will be if the move is only a hesitating gesture."

Commenting on the obstreperous attitude of the Turks at Lausanne, which it considers evidence of a French attempt to isolate Britain in the Near East, the Observer says that if France persists in this policy Britain will be free to make her own settlements with Russia and Turkey.

A pessimistic view of the situation in Europe is taken in Signor Nitti's latest book, The Decadence of Europe, in which the author contends that the Treaty of Versailles is the chief cause of Europe's troubles and severely criticises the French policy of extreme nationalism, which he says is ruining Europe, which is becoming a larger Balkans, with 73 States, all impoverished, as compared with 57 in 1914.

The book in conclusion declares that the United States will be bound eventually to intervene.

Laconia Party To Come By Rail And Boat January 13

Mr. R. S. Cauvin, of the American Express Company, returned to Shanghai on Sunday on the President Madison from Japan, where he greeted the American Express tour party of 440 prominent Americans on board the specially chartered Cunard liner Laconia.

Mr. Cauvin reports that the Laconia party have been enjoying their visit in Japan immensely. They will come to Shanghai in three parties, two parties coming by rail from Peking after touring Korea and Northern China, and one party coming aboard the vessel arriving January 13.

In Shanghai the party will make an auto tour of foreign Settlements and visit the Chinese city, stopping only one day on their way South.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES PLAY 'ON AGIN, OFF AGIN, FINNEGAN'

Whether Portless Fleet Has Sailed Or Not Nobody Knows

The portless fleet of Russian refugees which for three weeks has been anchored off Woosung, not content with enacting a modern version of 'The Flying Dutchman' are now the central figures in an oceanic rendition of 'On Agin, Off Agin, Finnegan.'

No one knows whether the portless fleet is at Woosung, or painting a trail across the high seas for some other unnamed, unknown port, which, when it learns it has been favored by the fleet, will be no less pleased than was Shanghai. The fleet has been "scheduled" to sail fifty-seven, more or less, times. On Saturday it was authentically given out that before the sun rose on another day the fifteen propellers on the fifteen ships would be churning fifteen lanes through the green sea waters—somewhere. But they didn't sail.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the gawky passengers on the tender coming back from the President Taft passed the anchorage the floating tenements of Russians were still tossing about on the tide with their anchors fast in the mud.

At 3 o'clock Mr. V. Grosse, Commissioner for Russian Affairs, deposed that he had heard from the fleet and that they were still waiting Admiral Stark's "full speed—somewhere."

Last night a reporter for The China Press, egged on by a relentless Editor telephoned about wildly in an effort to discover whether the fleet had sailed away or still absorbing the fragrant breezes of Woosung.

As a last resort he called the Harbor Master's office—at 11:15 p.m.—and after ringing merrily for a few moments got an answer.

Whoever came to the phone had evidently been awakened by the rude telephone operator's ringing. The reporter got an answer—but it didn't have any connection with the Russian fleet!

R.V.F. SHIP WILL BE SOLD TO PAY COURT JUDGMENT

Ellender, Fleet's Agent Here, Is Released From Jail

An order was issued allowing the sale of one of the vessels of the Russian Volunteer Fleet by the International Mixed Court in order to pay a judgment secured by Patstone and Patstone against the Fleet for services rendered yesterday after the Court had refused to grant an application made by Dr. O. Fischer for a rehearing of the case.

Dr. Fischer made his application on the grounds that new and relevant evidence had just arrived in Shanghai on the s.s. Lorestan from Vladivostok on Sunday.

Dr. Fischer at the same time asked for the release of his client, Mr. Ellender, agent for the fleet, who has been confined in the Ward Road jail pending a settlement of the civil action. After granting the order for the sale of one of the vessels to satisfy the judgment the Court ordered Mr. Ellender released.

As an outgrowth of the Volunteer fleet case Dr. Fischer has threatened to file a formal protest with the Consular Body because of the re-arrest of Mr. Ellender. He was arrested once before and confined in jail in connection with the same civil action.

British Court In Tientsin Jan. 16

Sir Skinner Turner, Chief Judge of the British Supreme Court, will go to Tientsin next week to hold a session of the Court at which Mr. Stephen Power will be tried. Mr. Power, formerly agent for the Sun Life Insurance Company, was arrested in Canada on charges of embezzlement from the insurance company and was held for trial at this hearing before the Consular Court.

PREMIER CALLS REUNIFICATION FIRST PROBLEM

General Chang Outlines
His Plans At Big Reception

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, Jan. 8.—Five hundred and three members attended General Chang Shou-tseng's reception yesterday afternoon at which several Cabinet Ministers were also present.

General Chang in the course of his speech expressed appreciation at Parliament's approval of his Premiership not only on his own account but also as it was essential that a Cabinet should be formed as soon as possible. He trusted Parliament would show the same consideration for his colleagues thus enabling the Cabinet to function at an early date. Reunification was one of the most important questions with which the Cabinet would have to deal. As it must be based on the Constitution he trusted Parliament would complete the Constitution as quickly as possible. General Chang Shou-tseng then introduced the Cabinet Ministers.

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, said that he was selected as head of the Chinese Delegation to Washington as it seemed probable that renewal or otherwise of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance would depend upon the Washington discussion. He returned much out of touch with local affairs and he trusted Parliament would give him advice where needed. He thought that it was most necessary for China to maintain the position recently gained among the nations. Dr. Sze said that that rested in the hands of China herself but he would do his best in that connection.

Mr. Kao Ling-wei, the Minister of the Interior, merely welcomed the members of Parliament.

Mr. Li Ken-yuan, the Minister of Commerce, promised earnestly to encourage development of industries and thus improve the conditions of the masses.

Responding on behalf of Parliament, Mr. Ma Hsing said that he hoped General Chang Shou-tseng would soon complete his Cabinet and that the latter would render valuable services to the country.

The reception terminated with the drinking of the toast: "Our Country." The reception was cordial throughout. The Cabinet Ministers were gratified at the attitude of the Members of Parliament.

Filipino Lawyer Admitted To Bar

Mr. Sofroulo V. Abrera, a Filipino, was admitted to practise before the United States Court for China yesterday afternoon by Judge C. S. Lobangier. Mr. Abrera was introduced by Mr. W. W. Blume of the Comparative Law School who stated that Mr. Abrera completed his law studies in the National University of the Philippines with high honors, and passed a special examination here. Judge Lobangier after administering the oath, congratulated him upon his scholastic attainments and welcomed him cordially.

Two Russians Here Waiting Round World

Two Russians, Korobkoff and Joannusen, of Harbin, have just arrived in Shanghai on their first lap of what is intended to be a walking jaunt around the globe. They left Harbin on October 16, obtaining the seal and signature of officials in every city and village en route as proof of their walking ability.

They will leave Shanghai for Hongkong within a few days and then continue on around the world, returning to Harbin via America, Alaska and Siberia. By the time they return they expect Russia to be governed by some stable government.

Thrift Week-The Idea.

For some years it has been the custom in America to observe one week in January of each year as a time when the principles of wise finance should be emphasized.

Of course, Thrift to be helpful must be practiced all the time, but it is especially beneficial to check up at least once a year our habits along this line with the standards found by experience to be desirable.

Italian Opera Company Again Scores In Tosca

The delightful opera in three acts, Lucia Di Lammermoor, will be given by the Italian opera company tonight. The leading roles will be taken as follows:

Henry Ashton—of Lammermoor ..
Lucy—(his sister) .. Mile. Delza
Sir Edgar—of Ravenswood ..
Raymond—(Chaplain to Lord Ashton) .. Sig. Scamuzzi
Lord Arthur Bucklaw .. Sig. Mauceri
Alice—(Companion to Lucy) .. Mile. Polastri
Norman—(Captain of the Guard at Ravenswood) .. Sig. Paterna

It is not hard to imagine the difficulties met by Mr. Carpi and the company of artists he has brought to Shanghai, to produce ten operas in as many nights. And considering the circumstances who can but highly appreciate the offerings at the Olympic this week and who can but enjoy the real enthusiasm of the unusually large audiences who can hardly suppress their applause until the last note of the Canonetta has been sung.

In "Rigoletto" the work of the conductor, Signor Castagnino, comes in for high praise. He had the whole in hand wonderfully and worked miracles with the small orchestra at his command.

Scamuzzi was an excellent Rigoletto and used his powerful voice with great dramatic expression. Miss Delza has a clear soprano voice but seemed not fully disposed and at times her intonation was a little sharp. Cappelli has a flexible tenor voice which he uses with the greatest of ease. Signor Mancori has a beautiful bass and Miss Vornos was a good Maddalena. So much for "Rigoletto."

Last night we enjoyed "Tosca" and it was even better than "Rigoletto." Hundreds were turned away after every seat had been sold and many insisted on standing. The production was very good. Impassioned as Tosca, Giorgi as Cavaradosi and Scamuzzi as Scarpia were really excellent and the smaller parts were very well done. The choruses at the end of the first act and in the second act were also very fine.

With the modern music, the orchestra was just as much at home because of the great powers of the conductor to whom the highest praise should be given.

It is little wonder that people are being turned away nightly at the theater. The company is entitled to the strongest support.

HUNAN

In comparing conditions in this section of the country with those of a year ago, one can be quite certain that the present outlook is far the better. Only a year ago the province was facing famine, and this year there has been a good harvest. It is commonly said that Hunan can feed her own people on a 45 percent crop of rice, and with a good crop just harvested there ought to be no difficulty for some time. It is feared however that too much rice will be exported, causing a shortage next summer. It is now being shipped out quite rapidly, and within the last few days it is reported that 15,000 piculs have gone from Shanghai toward Hankow. The rice merchants are desirous to ship all they possibly can to other ports, for the price down river is at present far better than they can obtain locally. By exporting a great quantity, the price locally will automatically rise, and if a shortage occurs, the profit is theirs. The government of the province also leads all the encouragement it can to the exporters, for the government receives $1.00 tax on each picul that is shipped out. Large exports will fill their coffers so that they can comfortably close the current year accounts.

Hunan's gravest danger seems to be at this point, and it is unfortunate that the government does not safeguard its citizens by raising its funds elsewhere, and insisting upon a surplus of rice being kept in the province to provide for all the people during the whole year. The famine of this past year, and the rice difficulties and reported famine of June, 1921, were difficulties largely caused by excessive exports, and rice hoarding. Hunan certainly did have a real famine in the early half of 1922, for thousands of people in the province were starving, and in great want. Yet a province which can feed its population on a half crop, ought not to face a famine because of one year of poor crops. If the government had functioned in the interest of its citizens, rice would not have been exported so profusely in the winter of 1921, and a famine threatened in the summer of that year. Also a strong government could have adequately handled the situation without outside help during the famine time this year, by compelling merchants to sell their rice, by stabilizing prices, and transferring rice to needy districts.

Let it be said to the credit of those in power in Hunan, however, that they have done something during the famine period by working with the Hunan branch of the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee. Some of them have done a great deal more than they wanted to do, and more than they themselves deemed necessary to do, because they were not allowed to do less. The Famine Relief Committee has constructed 140 li of good road on the direct route to Peking. There is already 50 li of good road connecting Changsha and Sianfan, upon which motor cars have operated for some months. The famine road begins at Sianfan, and is an extension of the old one. The section reaching to Xianfan is now hearing completion. During the summer months when the famine was at its worst, about 5,000 laborers were employed. The money for road construction came from famine funds outside the province, but the Hunan government co-operated to the extent of purchasing the land for the road.

Politically, Hunan is unusually quiet. She is enjoying an unusually long calm after years of turmoil. During the past decade there has hardly been a year when she has not had war, and when large sections of the province were not overrun by an advancing or retreating army. But now there has been no fighting for sixteen months, and although an invasion was long expected from the Kwantung side, it was deflected into Kiangsi. During the summer months when that province was afflicted with the conflict between the north and south, Hunan looked on sympathetically at the spectacle she had feared for herself, conscious that her famine was probably a blessing after all, in that it was the scarcity of food in Hunan that turned the southern army toward rich Kiangsi.

Chao Heng-ti is still the "man on top" in Hunan. There is a rather large party of followers who have endeavored several times to reinstate their leader Tan Yu-kai at the head of Hunan affairs, but there seems to be no hope of their immediate success. For more than a year Chao Heng-ti refused to accept either the title of civil, or of military, governor, while at the same time he was performing the duties of both offices. Recently he accepted the title of civil governor, and being the Commander-in-Chief of all Hunan armies he does not lack in military power. His government seems fairly stable, and his strength seems to be in his policy of not committing himself to any particular policy or party. He stays "on the fence" well, and gains partial support from all parties.

The opium traffic is flourishing and is rapidly increasing. Opium sells for about half the price that it did a year ago, and the business is conducted more openly. A few weeks ago a company of soldiers were seen coming into Sianfan escorting forty bearers, each bearing carrying about 60 ching. The boxes were plainly labeled as opium, and with such an escort there was little danger of its being seized. This is reported to be a common occurrence. The military authorities are making enormous profits in this traffic, and at present there is no way to check them. The soldiers can commandeer carriers, and can transport the opium very cheaply, often paying only for the food of the laborers. They can force their way past the likin stations without paying tax, and they are in little danger of being opposed in their business.

With the unstable government that Hunan has had during the past few years, and the unstable conditions caused by wars and rumors of wars, one wonders how merchants can carry on any sort of business at all. In spite of hardships the streets of Hunan cities show that she is a wealthy province, and business moves on in a very big way. Many foreign business firms which had contemplated coming into Hunan have hesitated to open up a business in the face of such uncertainty, and some other which have entered the province, have withdrawn. But the local Chinese firms have made large profits each year, and now that they have had more than a year of quiet, they are indeed flourishing. As the Chinese year is nearing its close, the merchants are quite encouraged, and all report a prosperous year.

All over the province students are clamoring for admittance into the mission schools, and a large percent of the applicants are being turned away. Not long ago it was thought that this rush was largely caused by the closing of the government schools; but now that many of the government schools have reopened, they are all well filled, and there is still the large enrollment in mission schools. Especially the enrollments in girls schools have greatly increased, so it seems that Hunan is experiencing a real educational awakening. During the past year the famine relief work hindered evangelistic work in some places, and particularly in this section of the country where the people were compelled to sell their land for the famine road, there was much ill feeling, which was sometimes anti-Christian and anti-foreign. Religious work was made difficult by such conditions, but most of these difficulties have been cleared up, and at present no large obstacles of that sort seem to confront the Church. The present religious outlook is quite hopeful.

RUSSIANS AGAIN DEMAND PLACE ON COMMISSION

Want Share in Deciding On Disposition Of Straits

(Reuter's Service)
Lausanne, Jan. 8.—The Russian Delegation has addressed to the President of the Conference a strong Note complaining of not being invited to take part in the elaboration of the draft convention regarding the Straits, which it understands is proceeding, and renewing its request for participation.

The Delegation repudiated responsibility for the check which, it says, the labors of the Straits Commission will otherwise suffer.
Lausanne, Jan. 6.—The Turkish delegate, Riza Bey, created a dramatic scene at the meeting of the Minorities Sub-Commission today by angrily refusing to discuss the questions of an Armenian's National Home or relating to the Chaldeans and Bulgars. He stood up, shouted, waved his arms and charged the Allies with employing the Armenians to ruin the Turks, and then left the hall.
The enraged heads of the Allied Mission have decided to send a letter of protest to Ismet Pasha.

Lausanne, Jan. 8.—Ismet Pasha this evening replied to the Allied protest with regard to the Riza Bey incident. The Turks prefer to say nothing concerning the nature of the reply, desiring to regard the incident as closed.
Nevertheless there is reason to believe that the reply follows the lines and views expressed by Riza Bey in the course of conversation today in which he endeavored to justify his attitude.

London, Jan. 8.—Notwithstanding the Anglo-French reparations differences the Allies are co-operating closely at Lausanne. It is not believed that the Turks will derive any encouragement from the failure of the Paris Conference. It is expected that the Lausanne Conference will wind up in a fortnight.

Lausanne, Jan. 8.—At the meeting of the Capitulations Commission this afternoon Marquis Gironi asked Ismet Pasha to give the Turkish answer to the Allied proposals as promised at the last meeting.

Ismet Pasha, in the course of a long reply, practically turned down everything, refusing to accept the proposal regarding foreign judges as an infringement of Turkish sovereignty.

Constantinople, Jan. 8.—The Greek Eleventh Division yesterday entered Karagach within the neutral zone. The French Commander protested but the Greek Commander refused to withdraw his troops. They are now on the west bank of the Tarsus facing Adrianople.

Paris, Jan. 8.—Telegrams from Athens state that Allied representatives approached the Greek Government with a view to stopping certain movements of troops. The Government is reported to have replied that reorganization of the troops in Thrace was the only measure for security.

Progress Made At Weihaiwei Parley

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, Jan. 8.—With reference to the departure from Weihaiwei of the Chinese Retrocession and Mr. Giles, Reuter's correspondent at Peking learns that the British and Chinese Commissioners have up to the present been engaged on the preliminary discussions, in which satisfactory progress has been made, and the principal delegates are now on their way to Peking to consult their respective superiors before the opening of more formal negotiations.

Mr. Sowerby Speaks At Catholic Club

Mr. Arthur de C. Sowerby, naturalist and editor of The China Journal of Science and Arts, delivered a lecture on "Camouflage, from the Naturalist's Viewpoint" yesterday afternoon at the Catholic Club before the members of St. Joseph's Association.
Illustrating his talk by several specimens, Mr. Sowerby told how camouflage was effected in animals through form, outline and dazle. He showed how birds and other animals develop protective coloring and mimic others, and explained how these and other methods were adapted during the war. When the word "camouflage" was born, Miss White presided.

Croup.
Every young child is susceptible to croup. Don't wait until this dreadful disease attacks your little one before you prepare for it. It comes in the night when chemists' shops are usually closed, and this alone should be a warning. Get and keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at hand. It never fails to soothe quickly and is absolutely harmless.

NAVAL OFFICER IS KILLED IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Lieut.-Commander Hooper, R. N. Dies From Causeway Bay Wreck Injuries

Lieut. Commander G. W. W. Hooper, R. N., O. B. E., of H. M. S. Hawkins, was killed in a motor car accident at Causeway Bay, near Hongkong on January 2. The British Naval officer and five other officers had attended the New Year's night carnival dance at the Repulse Bay Hotel and were returning to Hongkong when the steering gear got out of order and the car struck a pole. Three of the occupants were thrown from the car. Lieut.-Commander Hooper landed on his head. He died a short time later at the Royal Naval Hospital.

Lieut.-Commander Hooper was known in Shanghai, as in Hongkong, as an enthusiastic sportsman, being a particularly good cricketer and football player. He was also a keen polo player. He was 31 years old and joined the Commander-in-Chief's staff about one year ago. He served in the war on the Furious and was joint editor of a book on the biggest naval battle of the war, at Jutland. Funeral services were held the same day at the Protestant Cemetery, with naval honors and a large attendance from his many friends and Government and Naval officials.

Commissioner of Customs L. A. Lyall has issued a notification that the importation of subsidiary coins, irrespective of the year of issue, is forbidden in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sutcliffe were passengers sailing for the United States on the President Taft yesterday.

LAST NIGHT'S GAMES

Bearcats	63
Whites	7
Blues	27
Public School	18

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Last night's games in the Foreign Basketball League at the Rowing Club resulted as was generally expected, the Bearcats overwhelming the Whites, 63 to 7, and the Blues winning over the Public School five in one of the fiercest battles this season, the final score being 27 to 18.

The Bearcats had little difficulty with the Whites, Kenny Irl and Gray shooting pretty much as they pleased, and came up considerably in their record of baskets. Irl played his usual driving game, netting 13 goals, and Doc Gray was not far behind him with 10.

The Whites started off in great style, scoring most of their points early when Kline tossed in two, and the Bearcats were behind, 4 to 2. Irl, who had been playing guard, now changed to center, and with the new combination, Irl's men launched an attack which the Whites could not possibly stop. The Bearcat score mounted with lightning rapidity, and at half-time was 23 to 5.

During the second half, the Bearcats continued to press, and added 28 points to their score. Pollock and Elliott, two substitutes, came through with four and three baskets respectively. Roxburgh had poor luck in finding the basket, scoring only one, although he played an aggressive passing game.

The summary follows:

Bearcats	Whites
Gray	11
Roxburgh	1
Irl	13
Hirsch	1
Lewis	1
Elliott	1
Pollock	1

Goals from floor: Gray 10, Roxburgh 1, Irl 13, Elliott 3, Pollock 4, Kline 3. Goals from fouls: Gray, Kline. Referee: Neprud.

Timekeeper: Coulcher. Score: Grafton.

SCHOOL FIVE FIGHTS

The Public School team put up a tremendous fight against Neprud's Blues, and though the School five never led at any time, the score was remarkably close throughout to keep the crowd yelling. The game was one of the roughest played in the Foreign League this year. Both teams started out to rough it, and the lighter, younger team showed its mettle and fought the Rowing Club to a standstill.

"Baby" Siemssen, the School guard, played a whirlwind game against Coulcher, holding him scoreless for the first half. At one of the crucial moments of the game, Siemssen broke through the entire Blue team with a dribble that ended with the prettiest basket of the game, and put the Public School just four points behind their opponents, but the School forwards were not equal to the occasion and missed a number of opportunities.

Coulcher was unable to cage a goal during the initial period, but in the last minutes came back and scored five. H. Nash, a new name at guard, added a point and a goal, and the School was in the lead.

ROOSEVELT WINS HEAVYWEIGHT IN HUNT AT PEKING

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 7.—Mr. Kermit Roosevelt and party arrived in Peking last Friday after a hunting expedition in Manchuria.

Mr. Roosevelt took part today in the Peking Hunt, riding Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews pony, Squire. He finished second, winning the Heavyweight Cup.

Mr. Roosevelt and his party will leave for the South in about ten days, probably reaching Manila on February 2.

KERMIT Roosevelt, son of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt of the United States, who is coming to Shanghai shortly.

McGregor Is Again Junior Golf Club Champion; Wins Over Hopkins By One Hole

Mr. A. M. McGregor won the championship of the Junior Golf Club Sunday for the third consecutive time, defeating Charlie Hopkins. The final was played over the nine hole course at Hongkew park, and was for 36 holes. McGregor won the match on the thirty-sixth green by grace of Hopkins' failure to sink a putt for a 3, which would have squared the battle and sent the players into extra holes. Hopkins was three down and three to go on the thirty-third tee and proceeded to win the next two holes, thus causing great excitement in the gallery.

On the last hole they both got good drives to within short pitching distance of the green and when Hopkins laid his second fairly close to the pin the spectators got all set for an "extra inning" or two, as Hoppy is a fine putter as a rule and as he had tasted blood on the last two holes it looked like there was no stopping him.

At this critical point, however, his putter failed him, and as McGregor was on the green in two and down in two more he got a half, which was enough to win.

This championship match served to prove once more that steadiness will cop a lot of golf games. Hopkins is a strong and at times brilliant player, whereas McGregor, with a less slashing style, is generally always straight and very seldom erratic. In the first two rounds Hopkins finished two up, and as he was going good it didn't and H. Martin Little are in the other semi-final bracket.

After the match the teams dined together and Dr. Ivy (President of the Shanghai Golf Club) was their guest.

Mrs. C. D. Pearson, honorary secretary of the Ladies Club thanked Dr. Ivy for coming down to present their championship cup.

Dr. Ivy, in handing the Cup to Mrs. Tweedie Stodart, said he felt greatly honored at having been asked to do so. He said that Mrs. Stodart thoroughly deserved her win, as she had played such good golf, winning the championship with a score that had never been done before, viz: 89 for the first eighteen holes and 85 for the second, and besides this she had broken all records for the course this season. He also said what a good sport Mrs. Stodart was in everything she did.

Dr. Ivy then presented Mrs. Stodart with the runner-up cup, and said how well she deserved it.

Mrs. Stodart, in thanking Dr. Ivy, said she felt overwhelmed with so many flattering remarks. Mrs. Irvine, in a few amusing words, said how it was no use her pretending she could not speak, as she had been a sufferer, and spoken at many street corners and other places, but had never had a silver cup given her before, it was generally a case of having something less pleasant thrown at her. She felt it was no disgrace to have been beaten by Mrs. Stodart, but she had got the vote, and one day she meant to win the cup, but she was afraid it would be when all those present were at home or sick in bed.

Mrs. Stodart said as it was the last time they would be altogether before Mrs. C. D. Pearson's departure for home. She said she desired to wish the honorary secretary bon voyage, and to thank her for the work she had done, and hoped for her speedy return.

BOXERS HERE TO SCRAP FOR REFUGEES

Benefit Show Is Planned To Raise Funds For Russians

WANT FIGHTERS

Men Willing To Appear Are Asked To Report To Mr. Parkes

Local amateur boxers will probably stage a big two-night show soon to raise funds for the Russian refugees who came here on the fifteen vessels of the portless fleet, now at Woosung.

Any scrappers or wrestlers willing to appear are urged to get in touch with Mr. G. W. Parkes, secretary of the Shanghai Boxing Club, at the Public School for Boys.

Parkes, who is the big man in the fight game here, was approached yesterday by those who are attempting to help the Russians and the Public School boxing instructor immediately sounded the call for volunteers.

If possible, the boxing and wrestling bouts will be staged at the Town Hall.

Tilden Wins Tennis Match Despite His Loss Of A Finger

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Jan. 6.—William T. Tilden, in his first tennis match since his amputation, defeated Francis Hunter, 3-6, 7-5, 5-4. Experts expressed the opinion that there is no doubt that by the summer the champion will regain his usual form.

CHINESE RECS AND CHIN WOO IN DRAW GAME

The football game between the Chinese Recreation Club and the Chin Woo Athletic Association resulted in a draw of 1 to 1, on the Nanyang College ground Sunday afternoon before a crowd of nearly 1,000. Both goals were scored in the first half.

The first goal was scored by R. B. Zau, former Nanyang star, who was playing as right half-back, and played well in that position for the Chinese Rees. After 15 minutes of play, a corner kick was given to the Rees. Their left wing sent in a good shot which was knocked out by the Chin Woo goalie to the back line where Zau made a swift and beautiful drop-kick and netted the lone goal for his team.

After another quarter of an hour, Chin Woo scored. Their right wing, Woo, sent the ball in with a fast shot after some good passing by the forwards.

Weng, the center-forward of the Rees, missed a chance to score and win the game, when he shot the ball to the Chin Woo goal keeper's hands, after he had dribbled it up from center field, with nobody checking him near the end of the first half.

Although both teams tried hard to score in the second half each failed because of strong defense. Both forward lines were weak, due to lack of practice.

Review Of Shanghai Trade

BY DAVID ARKIE
Financial Editor

In THE CHINA PRESS issue of last Saturday we dwelt on the happenings in some of the principal markets of Shanghai during the week. The review although exhaustive had perforce to exclude others, which are now dealt here.

The redundancy of money in Hongkong has afforded investors in the Southern Colony an opportunity of investing money in Shanghai institutions. Cotton and industrial stocks have alike received attention and considerable funds have been invested, so much so that Hongkong today is the deciding factor in the establishment of cotton share prices. There is no attempt to force the pace, as the buying that is going on is slow and steady, fairly good proof that there is an entire absence, for the time being, of any rigging in the market.

A large volume of shares has also been bought by Hongkong for March settlement, and it is extremely doubtful if all these shares on forward contracts are in the possession of the sellers. The future will be worth watching, for Hongkong is likely to cause, and has the power today of doing so, a boomlet in cotton shares. It is significant that with so much money knocking about in Hongkong investors and speculators in that place should have shunned rubber shares. No inquiry comes from Hongkong for these. Presumably, they must have been bitten previously and are therefore now shy.

POOR HIDES

The quality of hides coming on the Shanghai market is described as very poor stuff. Buyers in the United States are rejecting present prices, and the worst of it is that the Chinese holders simply refuse to budge an inch from their price. Values are rising. The Japanese buyers are the only ones who are paying prices without a kick.

Shanghai has been importing more lead from Burma. Although stocks of metals in the local market are not large, dealers are not worrying about placing orders for the future, the political disturbances acting as a damper. Harbin has once again come into the local market and a fair amount of indent business on account of that port was done last week.

The Chinese boycott against Japanese goods throughout Shanghai has ceased following the settlement of the Kiaochow question, and a brisk trade between Chinese consumers and Japanese merchants has been resumed. Japanese merchants in that territory are looking forward to profitable connections this year.

With the favorable turn in the yen rate, Chinese dealers have placed further orders in Japan for refined sugar. The buying should increase with the approach of the Chinese New Year.

HONGKONG BUYING COTTON
There has been less activity in the share market since the New

Year, and while a fair business was transacted prices generally were maintained at old rates. Cotton shares are firmer. The demand from Hongkong for these stocks still continues, the Southern Colony absorbing all the offerings. In fact, Hongkong has been interested in all shares on the Shanghai Stock Exchange with the exception of rubber. With any further improvement in the yarn market higher prices might be expected for cotton shares.

The past week's transactions involved about 30,000 to 40,000 shares and debentures of various descriptions, a good portion of the business being in the nature of speculation.

Debentures are in strong demand, but holders of the Waterworks new issue are selling their Tis. 107 debentures at Tis. 105, at which price business was recorded last week. At 105 these debentures give a return of 6½ percent to investors, and anything short of that buyers are not willing to accept. What portion of the three lakh issue of the Shanghai Waterworks Company has been subscribed is a matter of speculation. Various reports are in circulation, the estimate of the takings being placed at between 25 to 30 percent.

The price of raw rubber in the London market is steady at 1s. 3d. per pound. Interest in rubber shares locally is still sustained, some being of the opinion that the prospect of further rises in the shares of estates situated in Java are assured. Some of these companies have good surpluses of working capital and if rubber keeps at the present level should constitute good "buys".

WHAFT DIVIDEND

There has been a good demand for Shanghai Docks and for Shanghai and Hongkong Wharves. In these as well Hongkong investors have been operating. A big dividend is expected to be distributed by the Wharf Company. It is rumored that the final dividend will be a likely Tis. 12 per share, making with the three interim already paid, Tis. 15 per share. From Tis. 170, at which price these shares were dealt in last month, they now stand at Tis. 200. The Company is stated to have made larger profits. Docks are steady at Tis. 95. The final dividend of the Wharf Company should be announced in March.

HIDES HIGHER

The arrivals of cowhides, buffalo hides and goat skins into Shanghai have been falling off considerably. The Chinese dealers in the country are asking more for their cargo than Shanghai buyers are prone to offer, and consequently they are not shipping down here.

The United States is still the large purchaser of all kinds of skins. On the other hand, Japan has been buying a lot of cowhides, specially heavy hides for sole leather and have been paying much higher prices than Shanghai exporters could offer. During last month some 18,000 to 20,000 pieces of cowhides were dealt in locally, for shipment to the United States and Germany principally. Of this quantity, Germany took about 20 percent. The market is quiet at 352 per piece for dry Hankow and Shantung 14 to 20 lbs. Heavier hides are quoted higher.

Dealers are asking higher prices and even expect to receive them, and in many instances refuse to part with their stock at present rates. Buyers in the United States have therefore found it difficult to secure supplies.

In goatskins the present price is higher than it stood last month. Szechuan goatskins commanding Tis. 150 to Tis. 152 per piece against Tis. 145 last month. Honan goat skins are at Tis. 60, against Tis. 57 and Tis. 58. It was reported yesterday that Arnold Brothers purchased some 20,000 pieces of Szechuan goatskins.

METALS STAGNANT

The iron and steel market was very quiet last week. There has been some inquiries involving small parcels.

A fair amount of business was put through with the United States, and also a large order for tinplates. There has been nothing doing in galvanized sheets.

We have been in receipt of small orders from Harbin for various products. Prices are steady and the situation is unchanged from the previous week.

Better business might result after the Chinese New Year. The political situation has a very strong bearing on the whole position. There is a prediction that this coming spring will witness another alteration between the factions. This is operating as a deterrent against fresh orders on a large scale being placed by Chinese.

The local market for tin is Tis. 68 per piece ex-godown, Shanghai. The rate is steady, but no business is reported as stocks are very small and the market is expected to go higher. The principal stocks comprise Hongkong tin. There were no arrivals of tin last week.

B. M. Lead is quoted here at Tis. 11 per piece. Some 100 tons of this were done last week. A good deal of lead is being ordered from Burma. Stocks of B. M. lead in Shanghai are about 300 tons at the present moment. No business has come to book in copper, and stocks are very scanty.

Trading in spelter is hampered by the difficulty in securing licenses from the Chinese Government. There is a fair outlet for tinplates, but stocks in Shanghai are small. The rate is Tis. 6 per piece.

The New York market is cabled strong for most of the steel products. The reaffirmation of its former sheet and tinplate prices by the United States Steel Corporation has caused little surprise. For the good of the trade in American iron and steel manufactures prices should be less fluctuating. Technically, the advance in the sheet market in the United States since the beginning of last year has not been matched by an advance in tinplates, but practically there has been substantial harmony, for the open price in tinplates was being cut deeply.

British manufacturers have sold in recent weeks fair quantities of galvanized sheets to Shanghai, but they are hesitating to quote beyond February, owing to the uncertainty of spelter.

On the London Metals Exchange zinc sheets f.o.b. are quoted at £45 per ton against £43, the rate ruling previously, and wire nails at 17s. per cwt. against 15 shillings. Standard copper is standing at £44½ for spot and £45½ for future, electrolytic copper at £71½ for spot and £72 future, tin at £182½ spot and £183½ future, and spelter at £36½ for spot and £34½ future.

The following are New York latest prices for some of the principal products:—

Pig Iron G.327 per ton; steel bars, steel shapes and tank plates G.32.05 per 100 lbs.; black sheets G.33.35 per 100 lbs.; galvanized sheets G.34.35 per 100 lbs.; tin plates G.44.75 per case; zinc G.37.05 per 100 lbs.; lead G.37.30 per 100 lbs.; antimony G.38.37 per 100 lbs.; pig tin 39 against G.37.75 per 100 lbs.; and aluminium G.32.75 per 100 lbs.

CHINESE BUY SUGAR
There has been a better demand for sugar since the resumption of business after the New Year, most probably prompted by the favorable trend of the yen exchange. During the last ten days Chinese dealers had contracted for some 50,000 bags of Japanese refined sugar.

Java sugar is still too high for the local market, the prevailing rate at Sourabaya being 13 7/8 guilders for February-March shipment and 13½ for April. The Japanese price is yen 11.40 per picul.

Arrivals of sugar from Japan during the past fortnight amounted to only 10,000 bags. Should the exchange rate of the yen become more favorable for importation, the Chinese dealers are expected to place large orders with the Japanese houses in Shanghai for the commodity. All the contracts concluded in recent weeks are for shipment February and March.

There is a good demand for sugar from the interior, and cargo is moving to Yangtze River ports, to Ningbo and the Waiwei district. The demand will presumably grow as the Chinese New Year approaches.

Cabled advices from New York state that the Cuban raw sugar market is steady, but rumors are not inclined to enter into large commitments until the demand for refined sugar improves. Business in refined sugar is confined to immediate shipments. Raw sugar centrifugal of New York is quoted at G.32.75.

A great deal of Java sugar appears to have been contracted by the Japanese for shipment principally to Japan. The amount is set down at about 317,500 tons, including 200,500 tons of yellow crystallized and 38,500 tons of white crystallized.

PEKING BILLS ASK TERRITORY BACK, COURT REMOVAL

Three Measures Affecting Foreign Relations Introduced

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 5.—Three important bills regarding foreign relations have been placed on today's agenda of the House of Representatives. These are as follows:

1. A bill brought forward by Mr. Lai Hsiang-yang urging the Government to take the necessary steps for the restoration of Dairen and Port Arthur to China by next March.
2. A bill brought forward by Mr. Yi Tze-chien demanding that the Government should press for the restoration of Kwangchow-wan by the French in accordance with the decision at the Washington Conference.
3. A bill introduced by Mr. Kao Yu requesting the Powers to agree to the abolition of the Mixed Court at Shanghai.

The present agitation for the return of the International Mixed Court to China is another eruption of a series of like agitations that have reappeared periodically. The Mixed Court is conducted by the Consular Body in conjunction with the Chinese Government and the Municipal Council, the Consular Body naming the foreign assessors who sit in all cases, and the Government naming the Chinese Magistrates.

In every case that comes before the Court both an Assessor and a Magistrate sit. The British and Americans have two Assessors, the Japanese one, and the Italian one, who sit regularly, and Assessors of other nationalities sit whenever their national interests are involved. The former Russian Assessor sits on regular days handling Russian cases as the Senior Consul's Assessor.

The Court functions under Chinese law, although, because of the foreign influence, there are a number of foreign innovations. The language of the Court is Chinese, but English is used in all cases. Court interpreters translating all the evidence.

The Mixed Court is known as the most unique and most powerful court in the world as it handles every kind of case from petty violations of the law to murder and armed robbery, which carry the death penalty under Chinese law, and there is no appeal from a decision of the Court. All Chinese living in the International Settlement are tried in the Mixed Court for violations of the criminal law or in civil actions, as well as Russians, Germans, and other foreigners not recognised by their consuls. Germans and Russians have been tried in the Court since the war deprived them of their extrajurisdictional rights.

Customs Notification

No. 1009.

Notice is hereby given that the Importation of subsidiary silver coins of the new mould issued by the Province of Kwangtung is for-bidden, irrespective of the year of issue.

The inscriptions on these coins are as follows:

Obverse: (中華民國) in the centre and
(廣東省) round the margin.

Reverse: "20" in the centre, and
"KWANG-TUNG PROVINCE"
"TWENTY CENTS" round the margin.

Customs Notification.

No. 1010.

With reference to Customs Notification No. 1008 informing the public that the Revised Import Tariff of 1922 will come into force on the 17th January, 1923, I have now received the following instructions from the Inspector General of Customs:

1. All shipments to China made prior to the 17th January are to pay duty under the old Tariff.

2. By "all shipments" is to be understood "all goods placed on board ship."

3. The Customs will accept as evidence that the goods were placed on board ship prior to the 17th
January the fact that the Bill of Lading is dated 16th January, or earlier, together with a certificate from the port authorities at the port where the vessel was loaded to prove that she arrived at that port prior to the 17th January, or such other documentary proof of this fact as seems sufficient to the Customs.

Business and Official Notices

Shanghai Waterworks Co., Ltd.

NOTICE

Consumers are recommended, during the winter months, to close at night the stopcock inside their houses, and to empty the cold water pipes by opening all the cold water taps in order to diminise the danger of pipes and fittings being burst by frost with consequent damage to walls and furniture.

The Company is at all times prepared to show consumers the stopcock referred to.

The Company wishes it to be clearly understood that in the event of any damage to the pipes and/or fittings due to frost or any other cause, the cost of repairing same will be charged to the consumer.

Under no conditions must a tap or taps be allowed to run to waste, and consumers are reminded that,
under the terms and conditions of contract signed by them, the Company has power, in the event of water being so wasted, to discontinue the supply, without notice.

Exchange Fluctuations

Adv. Banking Corporation

January 8, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each up 1/4d. in London on Saturday. The New York price advanced to 65 1/2 cents and the London-New York cross rate declined to 46 1/2. The only change in our official quotations here today was a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 71 1/2.

Our market in the early part of the day was firm, quite a large business being done in Sterling at 3 1/4 for January, 3 1/4 for February and 3 1/4 for March delivery. Gold Dollars were done at 72 1/2 January, 72 1/2 February and 72 1/2 for forward delivery.

Later in the day, however, rates eased off, speculators becoming rather keen buyers. At the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 3 1/4d. for January, 3s. 0 1/4d. for February, 3s. 0 1/4d. for forward delivery.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars at the close were offering 72 1/2 January, 71 1/2 February and 71 1/2 for forward. There were Yen sellers at the close at 67 1/2 for January and 68 1/2 for March with buyers at 1/4 point below these rates.

In the afternoon banks were quoting 3s. 2d. and 73 1/2 for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for delivery prior to Chinese New Year, and 3s. 1 1/4d. and 73 1/2 respectively for subsequent deliveries.

They were quoting 1075 for Franc bills. India bought silver in London on Saturday and the market is reported as steady. There was nothing doing in the New York market.

The American Association of China

EVERY member of the American Association of China should turn out for the annual meeting at the American Club this afternoon and participate actively in the several discussions of important matters that are on the agenda of the meeting.

The American Association, to a certain extent, represents the United States unofficially in Shanghai. It stands for things American, and works for the carrying out of American ideals, and if it, in the past, has failed to accomplish many outstanding achievements, it is due to the negligence of the individual members who slough their duties, rather than to the Association itself.

At the present time relations between the United States and China are such that every effort should be made to foster increased cordiality and friendship. There are dozens of ways in which such action can be taken and the Association, pleading with Americans here to get behind it, is attempting to carry out some of the proposed plans.

The report for the last year shows that it has accomplished several notable things, particularly the assumption of the 'load' of American civilian relief. It is to be congratulated on the things accomplished—but there is still much ahead.

American Consular buildings in China are in no way up to the standard that should represent the United States abroad. The Association, in co-operation with the American Chamber of Commerce, is attempting to remedy the situation by a strong presentation of the actual facts at Washington.

And in this it needs the backing of every American in China. The membership during the last year shows a slight decrease. New arrivals apparently have proceeded under the assumption that they had their citizenship duties behind them when they departed from America.

One especially interesting item in the annual report is a consideration of the amount of American news printed in China, particularly in the Chinese press. The committee discovered that very little American news appeared—and that this little was more often than not incorrectly presented. Conditions have improved during the past year to a certain extent, the investigating committee found and although no specific reason is given, The China Press may be to a large extent, claim the credit. The Washington Conference furnished a particularly illuminating example.

The CHINA PRESS itself has greatly extended its presentation of unbiased American news by giving its readers a splendid daily report on not only American, but world-wide events. An "Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS" means that our readers are obtaining an uncensored, intelligent presentation of important news items which, unfortunately, are not brought out to us by existing news agencies.

Americans, interested in having the United States appear in its true light, are urged to attend the meeting at the American Club this afternoon and fully consider these matters to the end that American interests and individuals in China may be better served.

Marshal Foch plans to send 45,000 troops into the Ruhr district and draw a cordon around the Rhine. Our French is terrible but we take it "Ruhr" means "bacon."

The versatile Hall's Edith Hanum, a woman, is the chief counsellor of Kemal Pasha, writes a journalistic correspondent from Turkey. Such journalists, reduced to jargon understandable by the so-called human race, means that Kemal, like the rest of us, takes his orders from Mme.

And it may also account for why Kemal always seems spilling for a fight!

THEY WHO ARE WHAT THEY ARE They who are what they are. They must look with sad, large eyes On climbers who climb to a star, On swimmers who sink to rise; Strong men gather the crowd And herd it to fight their fight; Swift men leap from the crowd, Snatching at gold or light; But they who are what they are Stand passive to love or pain, Dreaming of some high, far Beauty, or dreaming of gain; Watching the strong men climb, Watching the swift men leap, Till the gold and the dark of time Are the cold and the dark of sleep.

Hard To Please

BY DOROTHY DIX
(The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer)

"All men are polygamists by nature," said an old bachelor the other day. "If we told the truth every mother's son of us would have to admit that he would like to be the grand pasha of a harem containing all the fifth-seven different varieties of women."

"Now civilization and morality, and the high cost of millinery in these degenerate days, prevent a man from indulging himself in wholesale matrimony. One wife at a time is all the law, and his pocketbook, permits him."

"And that's where the trouble comes. It's trying to fit the harem ideal to a two by four flat, and monogamy, that is, at the bottom of the divorce problem."

"For the man demands that his one wife shall be a composite of all the charms and graces of her entire sex, and possess a dozen entirely different personalities. Naturally, this is an impossibility, but when she fails to do the chameleon act, and change her color to meet his varying moods, he feels defrauded, and becomes dissatisfied with his bargain."

"The real reason why husbands tire of their wives is seldom the fault of the women. It is because the man expects to spouse the whole of womankind with one wedding ring."

"Most men are not honest enough with themselves to admit that the fit in the matrimonial cement is their own unreasonable demands upon their wives. Suddenly they realize that their Mary Ann is distasteful to them because she smells of bread and butter, and that she bores them with her chatter of the nursery. Of their Anastasia sets on their nerves with her high browed conversation. Or their Maud's hills appear to them too outrageous to be borne any longer, and their thoughts turn yearningly toward some woman who is all soul, or they long for the soothing society of some lovely moron who does not know whether reparation is the name of a new color, or a prohibition cocktail, or they begin to think how comfortable it must be to be married to a woman who doesn't think that a wife's whole duty is to spend money, and a husband's to make it for her to spend.

"It isn't that the man is really dissatisfied with his Mary Ann, or Anastasia, or Maud. It is just a case of other mood, other women."

"That's why I have never married. I'm not good enough for one woman to say nothing of being an eligible part, for fifty-seven varieties, but such as I am, I have such a wide and catholic taste in femininity that I have never been able to decide among them."

"For instance, just take the mere matter of physical appearance. Abstractly, I admire, above all else, the tall, stately goddess who looks as if she had been born with a crown upon her head, and a scepter in her hand. If matrimony were only a grand promenade with all the world looking on, and applauding my taste in wives, how gladly would I cast myself at the feet of such a regal creature, and implore her to let me be her humble and adoring slave."

"Then I reflect that a goddess would be a terribly straining proposition to live up to, and I have a presentiment that I would get tired of being on my knees. And, anyway, I also like a jolly, little woman who is just a good armful, and whom I could pet and baby, and to whom I could play little tin rod."

"So there I am, hung up between the horns of that dilemma, not able to decide whether I would rather marry the woman whose beauty I admire or the woman who admires my good looks.

"Nor can I decide between the practical and the intellectual lady. I can but fancy how delightful it would be to have a wife with whom I could share my secret thoughts and dreams. I dream of how good it would be to roam through all the pleasant land of literature with a lovely Ph. D. whose mind was set above the noddle affairs of every day life."

"But, alas, I am a carnal creature, wedded to the flesh pots, and I have observed that women who dwell on the higher plane have their eyes turned up to the stars, and not down on the kitchen."

"I have a horrid intuition that I wouldn't be really interested in intellectual conversation if it were served up at a dinner where the meat was overdone, and the vegetable underdone, and the table cloth wasn't on visiting terms with the laundry."

"And there I am again. 'I'd dearly love a wife who saw eye to eye with me on Isen and the Einstein theory, but on the other hand, what wife has so potent a spell with which to charm as she who can confound with the pots and pans? So I ask myself—shall I marry a woman who dwells in the clouds, or one whose feet are firmly planted on the ground."

"Again there is the difficulty in deciding between the helpless woman and the helpmeet. I confess I'd enjoy a wife who regarded me as an oracle, and who would no more dream of questioning my wisdom than she would that of the Almighty. But how tired I would get of living with a female idiot, with no more backbone than a jellyfish, and how I would come to resent her everlasting demands upon me! And there I am again, unable to decide whether I would rather have a wife who is a luxury, or one who is a necessity."

"No doubt women have exactly the same difficulty in deciding on different kinds of men. No doubt there are millions of women who wish they could have one husband to make money for them, and another for a companion, a steady going husband to tie to, and a frivolous one to flirt with."

"But when it comes to matters of sentiment women know so much better how to camouflage their feelings than men do. They pretend so well that they are satisfied with us that we actually believe them."

"One leads where many follow."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Bringing Up Father

that she is a woman will not her from success. The war ried us ahead at a terrific spe. The code among men and women in law is the survival of the fittest. A woman must compete with the finely trained minds of men. I have always preached the importance of dress. I work on the theory that the attention of the judge and jury should be focused, not on myself, but on the case. One can readily see that if a woman lawyer is dressed too conspicuously she will distract the attention of the court."

August Heekachter, New York philanthropist, who has a $4,000,000 home for children—"There is good in every boy and girl the world over. Right here in New York there is so much to be done to bring out the good. We must do it only with love and kindness, because the poor little unfortunate who never get any love and kindness need it so badly to develop their little souls and their little bodies. There is no philanthropy more worthy than making good men and women of the little ones in the shadow."

What Thoughts Do The Stars Give You

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

From some original verses kindly sent to me by Mr. Frank Delaney, of Hartford, Conn., I quote the following:

"Last night I gazed up to the stars of Heaven,
And wondered at the brilliance of their glow.
They minded me of friends long since departed
To realms of peace, far from all earthly woe.
They seemed to beckon, and to give me courage.
And upward, too, my soul they seemed to bring,
Transmitting through the firmament the message

That life is hope and hope is everything.
They told me, too, that only here in labor
Could I expect to find tranquility,
And spoke about the infinite of justice,
That range averse to all humility."

Except that the thought in the last line shines through a little obscurity, this is no doubt an excellent presentation of the reveries and surmises that the sight of the starry sky on a clear night usually awakens in the mind of the meditative beholder. It shows why the eternal beauty and majesty of the heavens are an unfailing medicine to the weary and broken spirit.

Even the astronomer at his telescope, in the darkness, loneliness and silence that reign under the observatory dome, broken only by the solemn ticking of the clock, more often than he may be willing to acknowledge finds his mind drawn away from the micro-metrical measurements to pure contemplation of the stupendous spectacle before him.

The order of the impressions generally conveyed by the sight of the stars in their glory seems to me to be very well represented in Mr. Delaney's verses. First, wonder at the brilliance of the display, so amazing in the multitudinousness of the dazzling points of light, in their immense variety of size and beauty, and in the strange, striking and significant looking groups that they form with one another, wherein their various ranks seem to be recognised and respected.

Consider, for instance, the way the smaller Pleiades array themselves around their queen, Alcyone, not one tiny sparkle being enviously withheld by the least of them, and then observe how the magnificence of Orion is enhanced by the disparity of its stars, in which the little set off the great and reflect splendor upon the little.

To those accustomed to survey the sky with telescopes, multitudes of ordered systems of great and small stars are familiar. They are like coronets and strings of select gems and pearls.

Second, comes the recollection of departed friends, who may once have looked up with you at the heavens when life was young, and when the touch of a hand or a breath of perfume, under the starry fires, seemed burned into your memory forever. The evident fathomless vastness of the star deeps, always associated with thoughts of futurity and eternity naturally brings recollections of those who have "gone before," and this tendency is so universal and resistless that I am confident that even persons who are the most skeptical concerning a future life have at times experienced it.

In our best moods we feel that there is something in us fitted to inhabit mansions in the sky. Millions, billions, quintillions, of miles, and of "emptiness" of open space, which are insurmountable barriers to us physical creatures, are no barriers at all to the spirit which is in us.

Third, there certainly is in the intensity of the light of a star, and in its curious twinklings, an appearance of communication, of friendliness, of invitation, as if drawing the beholder toward it. The old Greek poet Aratus was strictly right when he wrote that "from all quarters heaven speaks to man." With all their sparkle and brilliance the stars have a solemn majesty that is well fitted to convey, the noblest inspirations to man.

An old Indian legend makes the group of the Pleiades a company of merry children snatched up while at play to enliven the night sky by their joy and light-heartedness. And some such impression is actually made by the sparkling of these stars whose crossing light rays seem to mingle like the cries of jubilant voices at a children's party. Yet, these same stars, in all ages of recorded history and in all countries, have exercised a deeply solemn, ethical influence upon the human mind. The Pleiades have been a kind of celestial monitor for mankind, dimly interpreted by the priests and poets, but always inculcating the hope of a higher destiny for mankind.

For those who may be impatient of what seems to them the absurd notion that the stars can have any inspiring quality whatever, it may be instructive to reflect that the inspiration may very well originate the gazer's own mind, through its slumbering powers being awakened by the transcendent magnificence of the spectacle.

They Say—

Kermitt Roosevelt—"There are many and close ties between the Brazilians and ourselves. They have remained our friends when some of what are known as our 'Yankee' characteristics have antagonized others of the South American Republics. The Brazilian prides himself, and justly too, upon his tolerance, and his emphasis of the personal equation. In Brazil there is complete religious liberty, and a Brazilian is ever ready to pass over the individualities and idiosyncrasies of a foreigner, while at the same time cheerfully admitting himself as the possessor of characteristics which may appear equally undesirable to the aforementioned foreigner. This genuine broad-mindedness and good fellowship is most captivating. Physical conditions in Brazil are more readily understandable by an American than by a European. There is no more homogeneity there than in this country, perhaps less."

You Will Do a Better Day's Work!

—and you will feel fitter and fresher all day—if you begin the day with Sanatogen.

In these days of keen competition, the man who "wins through" is the man who does a better day's work than his competitors.

When you come to analyse it, the quantity and quality of the work you do depends, to a large extent, on the amount of nerve-energy you possess. It is nerve-energy that enables you to make the most of your brains, and supplies the "driving power" essential to success.

Now, Sanatogen definitely increases nerve-energy—does not merely stimulate or excite, but increases it to a remarkable degree. The result is that when you take Sanatogen you do more and better work than you have been accustomed to do. Nor is this a temporary effect; it continues day by day, week by week.

Dr. Claude L. White says:—

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from languor, a gain of strength and activity, a richness of mind, and an increased resistance to diseases."

Begin by Taking Sanatogen Regularly Every Morning with or After Breakfast

This will enable you to acquire that extra nerve-energy which spells success in every business and profession; which gives you a zest and a delight in your work; which makes you keen and concentrated, alert and self-confident, and thus gives you the power to realise your ambitions.

Take the first step today, not tomorrow—now not presently. Sanatogen can be obtained of all Chemists and Dispensaries.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is going less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FLEISHER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
HOWARD PARKER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a safe and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
